A 7-city roadshow across India's top film institutes

7 CITIES · 16 WEEKS

THE PROPOSAL, IN ONE SENTENCE

In one sentence

WIF India proposes a Google + WIF roadshow across 7 cities, led by a Google Flow expert.

01

THE PARTNERSHIP

Google and WIF India, together on the road.

02

THE REACH

Seven cities, India's top film institutes.

03

THE EXPERTISE

A Google Flow expert leads every workshop and demo.

- › Google chooses one of two program levels: events only, or events plus Filmathon and awards.

WHY NOW

Why this program

- 01 India's next generation of filmmakers is entering an industry where AI tools are becoming part of the creative stack, but hands-on access at film schools and creator communities is still limited.

- 02 Google is already investing in AI filmmaking education globally (Flow Sessions, Sundance Institute partnership). India needs the same activation layer: real workshops, real creators, real films, not just product demos.

- 03 A 7-city roadshow puts Google's Flow expert inside India's top film institutes and connects them to working professionals, exactly where new creative habits form.

PARTNER CREDENTIALS

Why WIF India

01 Leadership

- Founded by Guneet Monga Kapoor, Oscar-winning producer (The Elephant Whisperers)
- Sister organization to WIF LA, a globally recognized advocacy body for women in film
- Rabia Chopra, Director: leads program management, partnerships, and industry engagement on the ground

02 Community and reach

- 3,500+ member national community across film, TV, and digital media
- Free membership; spans students, emerging talent, and working professionals
- The Collective Database: curated network of women and gender-diverse film professionals across India

03 Why WIF fits this roadshow

- Existing relationships with top film institutes across India
- Track record hosting networking events, workshops, and masterclasses nationally
- Credible bridge between Google's product story and India's film school + industry audience
